Boatyards Marinas and Services

around the River Thames

3rd Edition

With the compliments of the
Thames Boating Trades Association

Introducing the The Thames Boating Trades Association

The Thames Boating Trades Association (TBTA) currently has about 185 members throughout the Thames corridor and is an association within the British Marine Federation. One of the aims of both organisations is to assist members and promote boating; this booklet will hopefully assist you with leisure time around the Thames including a guide of so many exciting things to see.

I am very proud to have been elected chairman of the TBTA as my families company was a founder member of the association many years back. I have worked in the industry for over 35 years and have always had a passionate interest in boats and in particular the royal river for its beauty and friendly atmosphere, I hope you enjoy it just as much as I have.

We welcome all boat owners and holidaymakers to the Thames and hope our members can be assistance to you. This directory is our 4th edition and is packed with usual information and an A-Z listing of our members.

If you require any further information the following websites should be of use:

Good boating

John Salter FMW
Chairman TBTA

Welcome to the Thames

This is a river rich in boating history as well as being one of the most beautiful waterways in the country. The Environment Agency, as navigation authority, welcomes you and hopes you will have time to explore the river and its traditions.

From Lechlade to Teddington our lock keepers and staff work hard to maintain locks, weirs and water levels, patrol the river and provide moorings, sanitary stations, electricity charging points, campsites, angling platforms and other facilities. They are here to help, so please ask if you have any queries. We now register over 25,000 powered and unpowered craft every year, and as the river is increasingly linked by new waterways to national network, we look forward to seeing more boaters from around the country.

To help your planning, the Agency publishes a range of free leaflets - A Users Guide to the Thames, Camping by the River Thames, Tips for Visiting Boaters and Hiring a Boat. We also publish, for a small charge, 'Out and About Guides' for each reach of the river, providing details of nearby shops, launderettes, local hospitals, public transport, boating facilities, post offices, restaurants and more, as well as sites of local interest.

Please call the information line: 0845 601 5336 or see the Agency's Thames website www.visitthames.co.uk

Looking after the river

Managing the non-tidal Thames is a long-term project. Much of the river is an important wildlife habitat and the Agency's work involves balancing the needs of visitors, the boating trades community, businesses, residents and wildlife. And making really substantial improvements to locks and riverside facilities requires huge investment, and long term planning with local authorities, many landowners and residents, and hundreds of clubs and businesses. But we are getting there. Thames, Ahead, the projects set up in 2000 to promote the river and improve facilities, has made considerable progress and was commended at the 2003 Waterways Renaissance Awards.

We hope you enjoy your time on the river.

Lechlade ~ Oxford

The non-tidal section of the Thames is generally navigable from Inglesham near Lechlade (where there is a convenient turning point), downstream to just below Teddington Lock, about 128 miles. Above Inglesham the river is accessible only to small boats and canoes. Below Teddington the river starts to be tidal down to the half tide lock at Richmond and then on to the Tideway. The non-tidal section is administered by the Environment Agency - Thames Region from their office at Reading Tel: 01189 535000. A river registration is required, and boats based on the Thames must have a Boat Safety Certificate. (See page 18) .

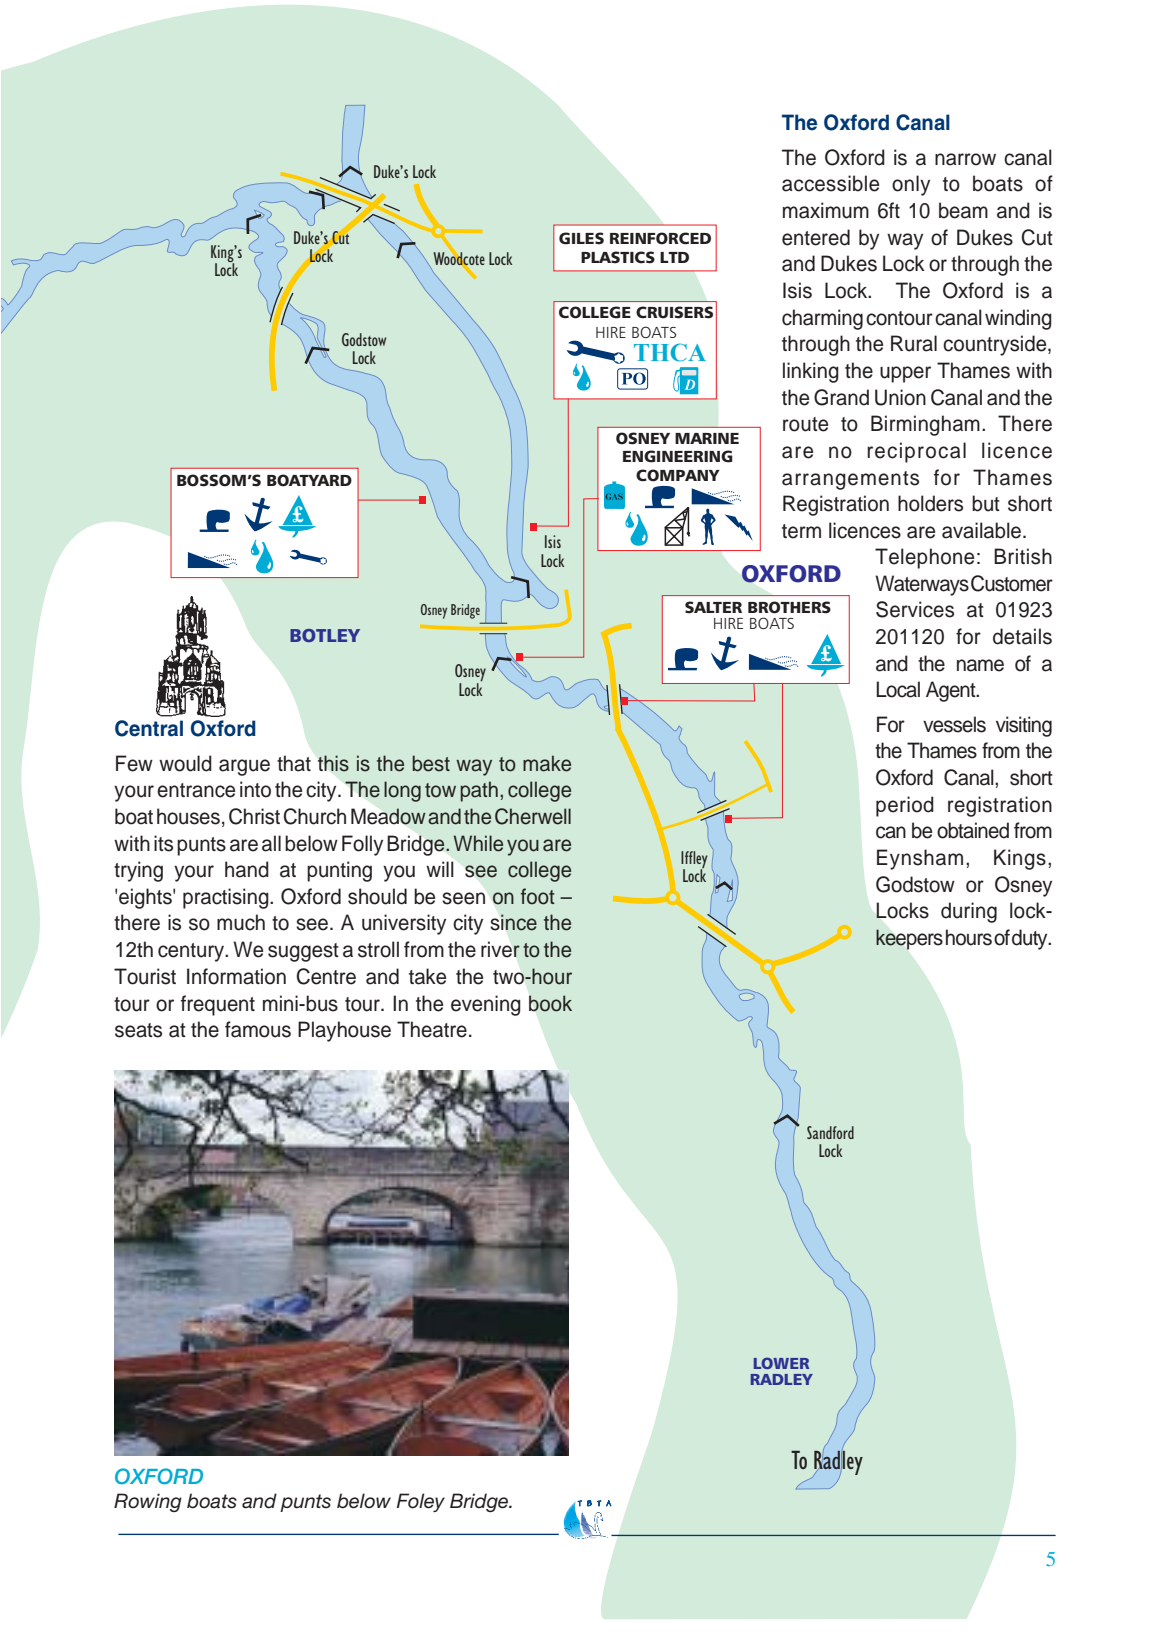

HA'PENNY BRIDGE

The Oxford Canal

The Oxford is a narrow canal accessible only to boats of maximum 6ft 10 beam and is entered by way of Dukes Cut and Dukes Lock or through the Isis Lock. The Oxford is a charming contour canal winding through the Rural countryside, linking the upper Thames with the Grand Union Canal and the route to Birmingham. There are no reciprocal licence arrangements for Thames Registration holders but short term licences are available.

Telephone: British Waterways Customer Services at 01923 201120 for details and the name of a Local Agent.

For vessels visiting the Thames from the Oxford Canal, short period registration can be obtained from Eynsham, Kings, Godstow or Osney Locks during lock-keepers hours of duty.

Central Oxford

Few would argue that this is the best way to make your entrance into the city. The long tow path, college boat houses, Christ Church Meadow and the Cherwell with its punts are all below Folly Bridge. While you are trying your hand at punting you will see college 'eights' practising. Oxford should be seen on foot – there is so much to see. A university city since the 12th century. We suggest a stroll from the river to the Tourist Information Centre and take the two-hour tour or frequent mini-bus tour. In the evening book seats at the famous Playhouse Theatre.

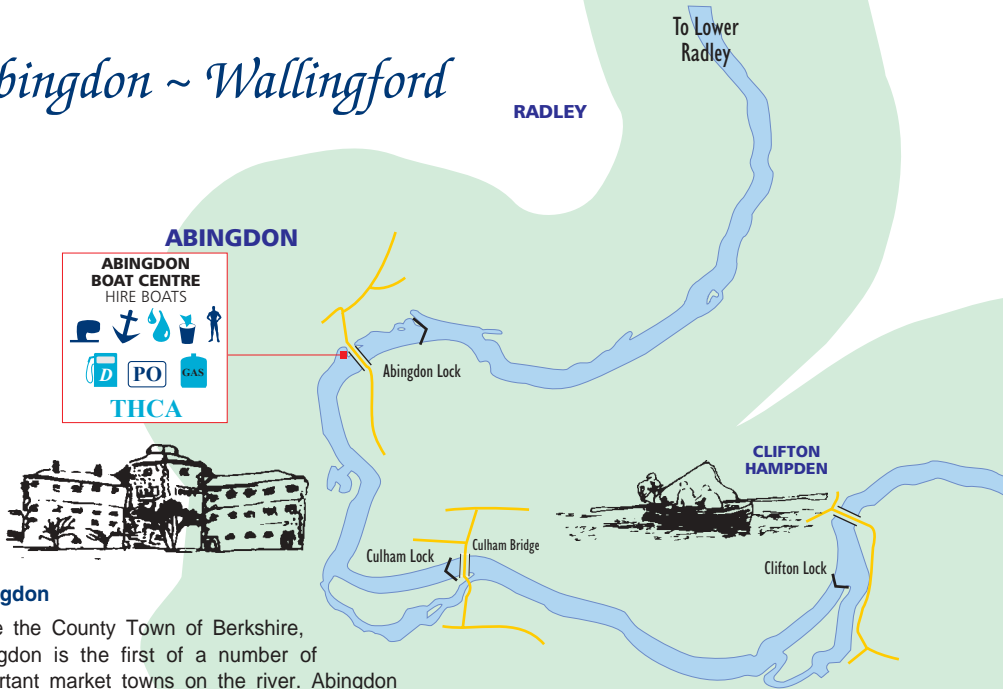

OXFORD

Rowing boats and punts below Foley Bridge.

Abingdon ~ Wallingford

Abingdon

Once the County Town of Berkshire, Abingdon is the first of a number of important market towns on the river. Abingdon used to boast a powerful abbey and today there are two groups of monastic buildings remaining. These buildings are in Thames Street next to the Upper Reaches Hotel where a 14th century watermill can be seen from the restaurant. The moorings in Abingdon are an excellent feature of the town and are an encouragement to stay awhile and explore.

Half a mile upstream of Abingdon Lock is the now disused Swift Ditch Lock which was built in 1624. Only the second pound lock, the type of lock you see on the river today, ever built in this country, it is situated in the Swift Ditch Backwater which was once the main navigation channel of the river.

ABINGDON

Clifton Hampden

With the village church on the west bank and the famous 'Barley Mow' on the east, an impressive village with its imposing six-arched bridge designed by Sir Gilbert Scott. You must admire the 'Barley Mow', restored to its original and unusual design with its low pitched gables, thatched roof and latticed windows. A favourite with Jerome K. Jerome, who stayed here while writing 'Three Men In A Boat'.

Dorchester

From Day's Lock take the path over Dyke Hills for the half mile walk into Dorchester. Strictly speaking Dorchester is on Thame and not Thames for it is to the south opposite Little Wittenham Wood that the River Thames offers itself to the ever growing Father Thames. An area rich in history, Dorchester was once the cathedral city of Wessex and later Mercia, from the 7th to the 9th centuries. The Abbey, with its Jesse window, is one of the most important buildings in the Thames Valley.

WALLINGFORD

HIRE BOATS

Wallingford

Celts, Romans, Saxons and Danes fought for the river crossing while William the Conqueror marched on London from Hastings by way of Wallingford. From the river it is the superb 900 ft. long bridge, only 15 ft shorter than the old London Bridge that heralds today's river crossing. A wide variety of inns, a busy market place, the excellently restored Lamb Hotel into an antiques and craft arcade and the centuries-old remains of both castle and fortification make Wallingford a place to explore with the 15th century George Hotel where Dick Turpin once stayed.

Moulsford ~ Sonning

Moulsford

As you head for the Goring Gap, some five miles downstream from Wallingford, you will come to Moulsford and the 'Beetle and Wedge' and yet another literary connection with the river. To H.G. Wells the 'Beetle and Wedge' became 'The Potwell Inn' in 'The History of Mr. Polly'.

STREATLEY

Goring and Streatley

Through Cleeve Lock with its old water mill and into the very heart of the valley where the Berkshire Downs and Chiltern Hills, the Ridgeway Path, the twin towns of Goring and Streatley, Berkshire and Oxfordshire, railway and road, all seem to meet around the common theme of the Royal River. Foaming weirs, busy locks, romantic punts lined up neatly, the riverside Swan Hotel and the beautifully restored Magdalen College barge, are part of the scene.

GORING LOCK

Mapledurham

Under Whitchurch toll bridge the boatman sets his sights on Mapledurham. On the Berkshire side is Westbury Farm Vineyard which offers groups a conducted tour complete with wine tastings and, for the fisherman, day tickets for trout fishing. Manor House and Mill, almshouses and church, form an enchanting scene. The Elizabethan house contains fine ceilings, massive oak staircases, a wide range of pictures from the 16th, 17th and 18th centuries and a private chapel. The estate has restored a 15th century flour mill with wooden machinery.

Whitchurch Lock

PANGBOURNE

PURLEY ON THAMES

Reading

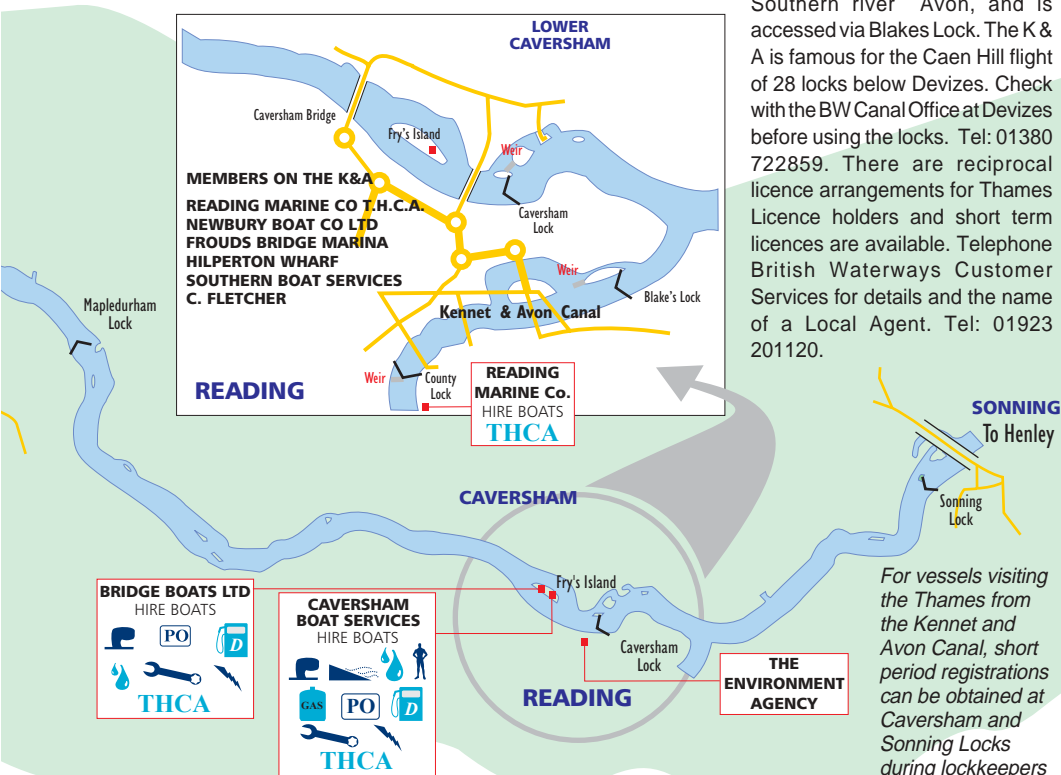

Entering Reading from Tilehurst the Thameside promenade runs for a mile before Caversham Bridge. Caversham Court on the north bank offers the visitor terraced lawns and a tree-lined river frontage. Downstream below Reading Bridge the River Kennet slips into the Thames having come from Wiltshire in the form of the Kennet and Avon Canal. The merging of the rivers offers Reading a dual interest in waterways and the Borough Council are promoting walks along the river by way of a waterways symbol featuring a swan. One of the attractions of the walk, Forbury Gardens, was once the forecourt of Reading Abbey, the remains of which can still be seen. Henry I founded the abbey in 1121 and was buried there in 1136.

SONNING LOCK

The Kennet and Avon Canal

The Kennet and Avon links the river Thames at Reading with the Southern river Avon, and is accessed via Blakes Lock. The K & A is famous for the Caen Hill flight of 28 locks below Devizes. Check with the BW Canal Office at Devizes before using the locks. Tel: 01380 722859. There are reciprocal licence arrangements for Thames Licence holders and short term licences are available. Telephone British Waterways Customer Services for details and the name of a Local Agent. Tel: 01923 201120.

For vessels visiting the Thames from the Kennet and Avon Canal, short period registrations can be obtained at Caversham and Sonning Locks during lockkeepers hours of duty.

Sonning ~ Maidenhead

HENLEY-ON-THAMES

HENLEY-ON-THAMES

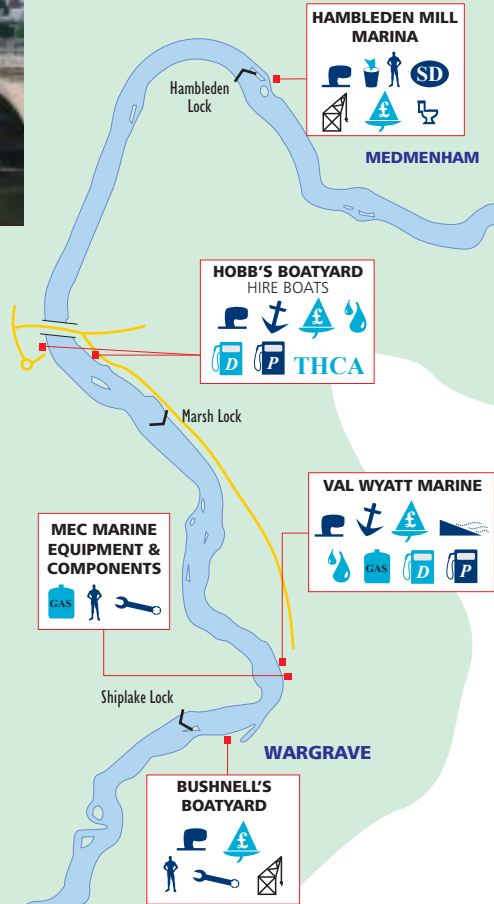

Henley-on-Thames

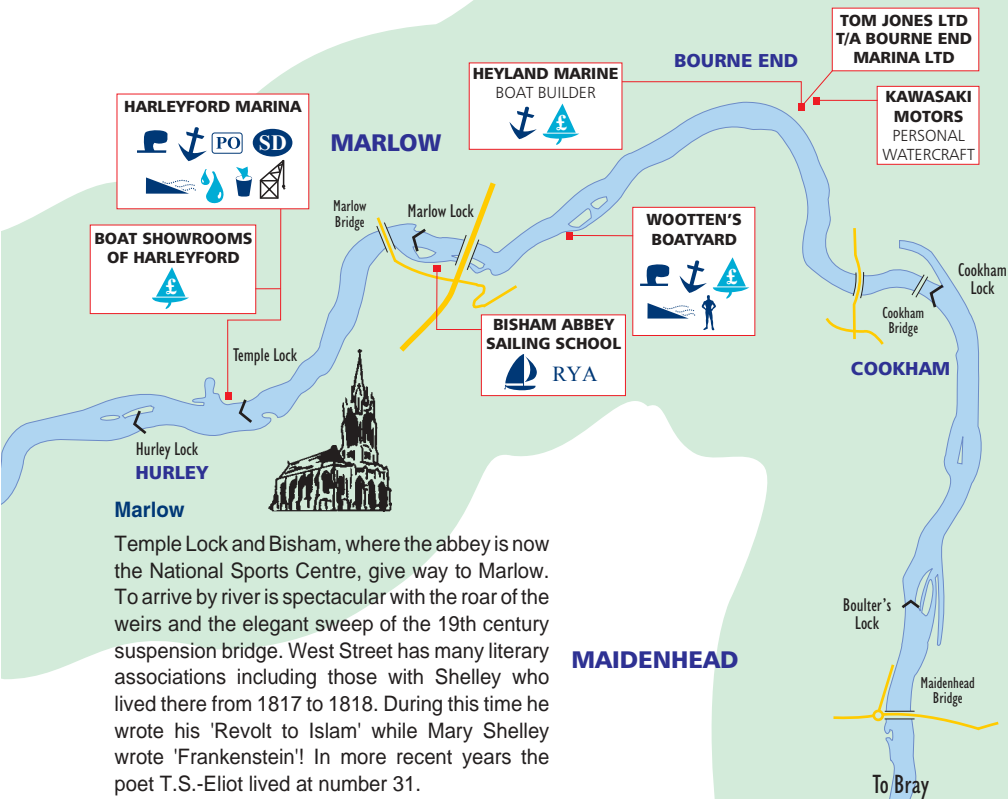

The Thames cuts a course to the north-west, through Marsh Lock accompanied by the A321. Henley's tradition amongst oarsmen was born on June 10th, 1829, when the Universities of Oxford and Cambridge rowed their first boat race. After ten annual races the Henley Regatta was established. In 1851 it became the Henley Royal Regatta when Prince Albert became its patron. The 'Royal' regatta is held in the first week of July. By the river is the 'Red Lion Hotel' where King Charles I stayed in 1632 and 1642 and the Duke of Marlborough furnished a room for himself while travelling regularly to Woodstock to see his great palace being built. See the Kenton Theatre, built in 1805 and the fourth oldest in England, and explore the quaint inns.

Sonning Bridge
Sonning Lock
To Caversham

Sonning

Popular Sonning gathers round an eleven-arched 18th century bridge. For the boatman it's three miles from Caversham Lock to Sonning Lock. The river soon shrugs off its urban coat. Good towpath walking, riverside churchyard, flower decked lock, weirs and mill are all enhanced by the cuisine and accommodation of 'The French Horn' and 'The Great House'.

Marlow

Temple Lock and Bisham, where the abbey is now the National Sports Centre, give way to Marlow. To arrive by river is spectacular with the roar of the weirs and the elegant sweep of the 19th century suspension bridge. West Street has many literary associations including those with Shelley who lived there from 1817 to 1818. During this time he wrote his 'Revolt to Islam' while Mary Shelley wrote 'Frankenstein!'. In more recent years the poet T.S.-Eliot lived at number 31.

Hurley

Past Medmenham where the abbey of St. Mary was once the home of RAF-Signals Command and where in the village hidden from the river you will find the 'Dog and Badger' an historic old inn dating from 1390. Then it's Hurley with a lock and wooden footbridge that beckons the boatman to stay the night. The village is attractive with old inns like the 'Rising Sun'!

APPROACHING MARLOW LOCK

MAIDENHEAD

Cookham

With the steep beechwoods to the south the Thames loops round into Cookham by way of Bourne End on the north bank, a busy riverside town with its cruiser station and noted as a yachting centre. Cookham was the home of painter Stanley Spencer and his paintings, drawings and personal effects can be seen in the Stanley Spencer Gallery in the Hings Hall, the only memorial gallery in Britain devoted to an artist in his birthplace. Fittingly, works on show include the unfinished painting 'Christ Preaching at Cookham Regatta'. The gallery is open daily from Easter to October.

Maidenhead ~ Staines

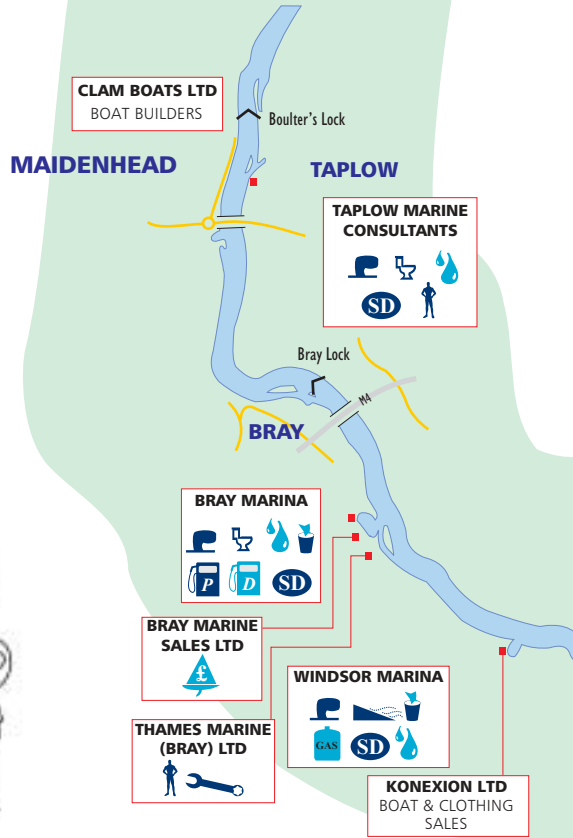

Maidenhead

Shortly before Boulter's Lock and Maidenhead you are joined by the A4049 from Cookham to accompany the boatman to Maidenhead Bridge. Boulter's Lock is one of the liveliest on the river, contrasting greatly with the remoteness of Cookham Lock..

Bray and Monkey Island

Leaving Maidenhead the river flows first under the Portland stone Maidenhead Bridge and then under Brunel's finest railway crossing of the river to the village of Bray. The 13th century church reminds the boatman of the famous 'Vicar of Bray' - Simon Alwyn - who repeatedly changed his views to keep his living under Henry VIII, Edward VI, Mary and Elizabeth I. He is buried in the churchyard. Once through Bray Lock you arrive at Monkey Island and the hotel. This is a private island but mooring is allowed for restaurant patrons.

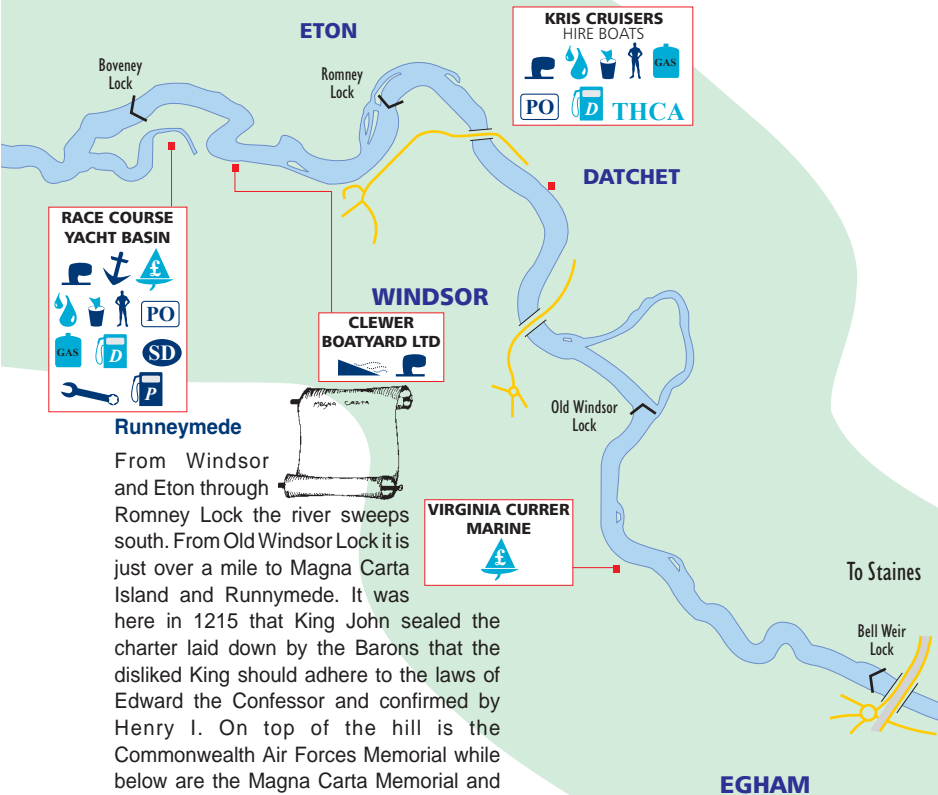

BOULTERS LOCK

Windsor

On the south bank is the racecourse and Clewer village but soon you are in Royal Windsor with Eton's Brocas Meadows on the north bank. Everything in Windsor revolves around the castle, founded by William the Conqueror and a royal residence since the reign of Henry I. The castle contains St. George's Chapel, the finest example of Perpendicular architecture in England. Other buildings of interest in Windsor include the Theatre Royal, built in 1793, Burford Lodge, now part of the Royal Mews, where Nell Gwynne lived, and the 17th century Guildhall completed by one of Windsor's famous sons, Sir Christopher Wren who became MP for the Royal Borough in 1688.

WINDSOR BRIDGE

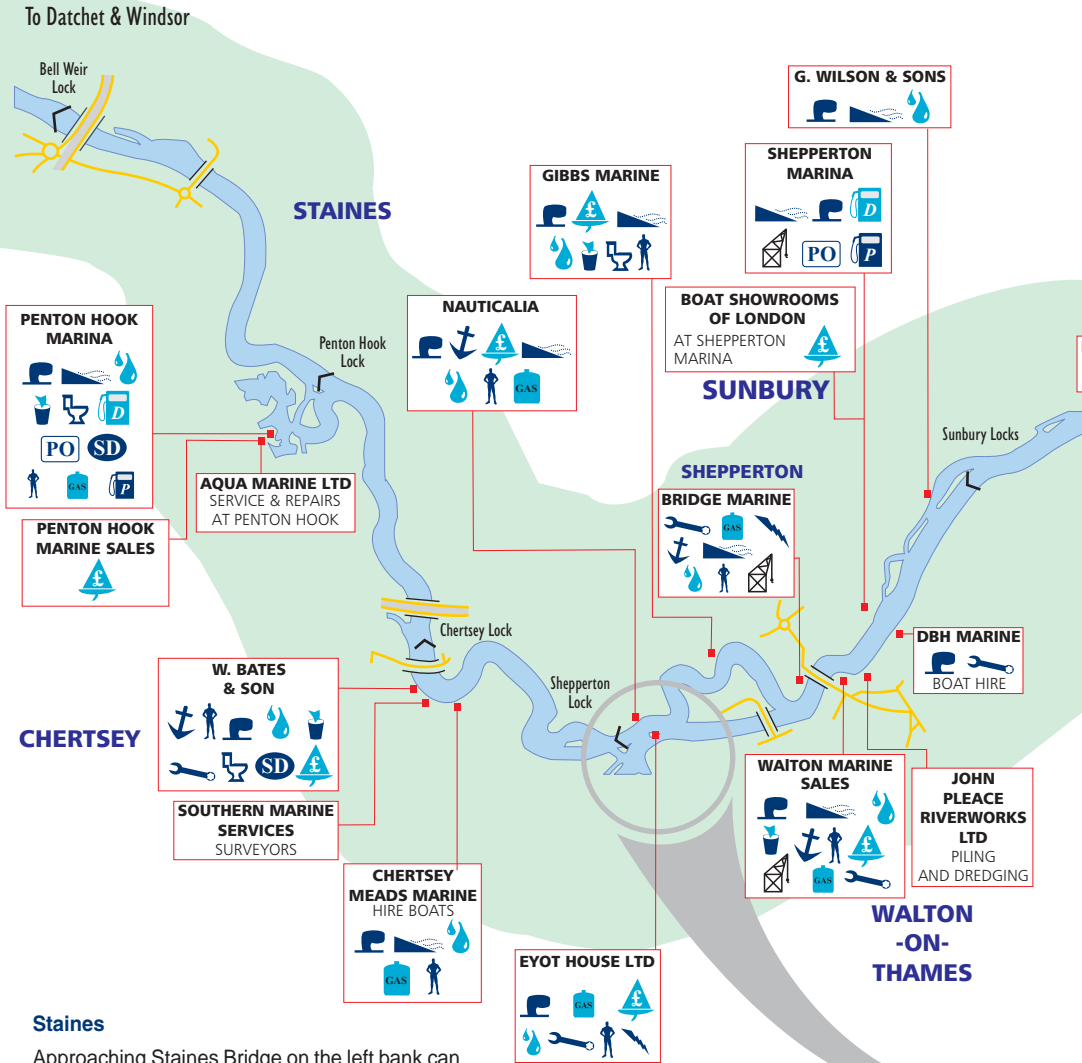

Runnymede

From Windsor and Eton through Romney Lock the river sweeps south. From Old Windsor Lock it is just over a mile to Magna Carta Island and Runnymede. It was here in 1215 that King John sealed the charter laid down by the Barons that the disliked King should adhere to the laws of Edward the Confessor and confirmed by Henry I. On top of the hill is the Commonwealth Air Forces Memorial while below are the Magna Carta Memorial and the Kennedy Memorial, an acre of England given to the American people.

Staines ~ Sunbury

Staines

Approaching Staines Bridge on the left bank can be seen the London Stone. This was originally placed here in 1285 and marks the former western limited jurisdiction of the City of London over the River Thames. It is from this ancient London Stone that Staines is said to derive its name. There are public moorings at the landing stage near the Town Hall and the memorial Gardens.

Chertsey

A long High Street leads to Chertsey Bridge, a narrow but handsome 7-arch structure. Chertsey is the site of a famous Benedictine Abbey founded in the 7th century, refounded in 1110 but almost nothing now survives. Thorpe Park theme park provides an interesting excursion for those with children.

MOLESEY LOCK

The Tidal Thames

The Port of London Authority has jurisdiction over the tidal section of the Thames below Teddington Lock, via the half tide lock at Richmond. The PLA makes no charge to river users and issues an excellent "Pleasure Users Guide" obtainable from PLA Devon House, 58-60 St. Katherine Way London E1 9LB. Tel: 0171 265 2656.

The Grand Union Canal

The Grand Union Canal can be accessed by Thames Locks from the Northern Bank of Thames below Richmond. There are reciprocal licence arrangements for Thames Licence holders and a short term pass may be obtained from the British Waterways Lock keeper at Brentford Lock. Telephone British Waterways Customer services on (01923) 201120 for additional details.

The Non Tidal Thames

Visitors passing upstream through Teddington Lock come on to the non tidal Thames administered by Environment Agency Thames Region, from their Reading Office Tel: 01189 535000. Their jurisdiction actually begins something over 200 yards below the lock. Registration for 6 individual days or 2 sets of 15 consecutive days or for 31 consecutive days, are available from Teddington Lock which is manned on a 24 hour basis.

Hampton Court

It was in 1514 that Thomas Wolsey, Cardinal and Statesman, commenced the building of Hampton Court Palace. The scale and splendour of the Palace was such that tactfully Wolsey gave it to the King but this did not save him. The King made it a still grander residence. There are many associations with him, including the reputed ghosts of two of his wives, Jane Seymour who died there in childbirth and Catherine Howard. Little lived in by the early Georges, Queen Victoria opened the State Rooms and gardens to the public in 1839. The Palace is now a major tourist attraction. The gardens of Hampton Court are very beautiful and contain formal gardens, woodland gardens and formal avenues as well as a wilderness in which is found the famous maze.

Kingston-Upon-Thames

Kingston-Upon-Thames was the Coronation place of Saxon Kings from 902 to 978. The traditional Coronation Stone, not to be confused with the Stone of Scone in Westminster Abbey, is still preserved in front of the Guildhall. The first view of the triangular market place seems too vivid to be true - the market place fussily Victorian, surrounded by stalls. The busy market is open every week day.

Teddington

It is at Teddington that the Thames becomes non-tidal. The lock system is the largest on the river. There are three locks to accommodate barges, launches and skiffs. The name Teddington derives from the Tudds family, the head family of the village during the 14th century. In the churchyard adjoining the ivy-clad St. Mary's church, are buried the famous actress Peg Woffington and John Walter, founder of 'The Times'.

The Boat Safety Scheme

Boat Safety Certificate

The Boat Safety Scheme is a joint initiative of the Environment Agency and British Waterways for boats on the rivers and canals in their care. In addition various other navigation authorities have now adopted the scheme for use on their own waters Your boat must be examined and a Boat Safety Certificate issued before you can obtain a river or canal licence. The Boat Safety Certificate is valid for four years from the date of issue. You will find a list of Boat Safety Examiners on this page.

When are Boat Safety Certificates required ?

Since 1st January 2000 all powered boats on the Environment Agency Waters, which includes the non-tidal Thames, and all powered boats on British Waterways waters require a Boat Safety Certificate in order to obtain a licence to navigate those waters.

The only exceptions are new boats built under the RCD which do not require a BSS certificate for the first four years, and privately owned open boats powered by an outboard motor. "Privately owned" in this case means not let out for hire or reward.

Recreational Craft Directive

The Recreational Craft Directive (RCD), is a separate piece of EU legislation, concerned with standards of construction for all new boats - not just canal and river boats - and came into force on June 16th 1998. It applies to boatbuilders - with a few exceptions, to all boats over 2.5 metres sold for leisure use after that date. An RCD Certificate can be used to obtain a River Registration and again is valid for four years. After that you will need to obtain a Boat Safety Certificate in the usual way.
